

Press Release

6th December 2005

For immediate use

Cameron must not give in to right on Europe

Speaking as David Cameron was announced as the new leader of the Conservative Party, STEPHEN TWIGG, Director of the FPC today said:

“I congratulate David Cameron on being elected to lead the Conservative Party.

“However, it is crucial that he does not give in to the right-wing elements in his own party on European policy.

ENDS

Editor's Notes

1. On 24th August 2005, the Foreign Policy Centre hosted David Cameron MP, then Shadow Education Secretary, at Senate House, University of London. In a wide-ranging speech, covering issues of homeland security and British values, Mr. Cameron outlined his views on the current security situation in the UK, and discussed related issues such as British foreign policy, the UK's domestic intelligence apparatus, and the importance of cultural education and integration as part of a holistic response to the July 7 London bombings. The event was hosted by the Foreign Policy Centre's Director of Research, Dr. Greg Austin, and chaired by Matthew d'Ancona, Deputy Editor of the Sunday Telegraph. More details are available at

For more information, please call Alex Bigham on 020 7388 6662 or 07830 195 812