UPCOMING EVENTS

Full and Equal Citizens: How to Deliver Equality for Israel's Arab Minorities

Date: Thursday 19 November, 4.00-5.30pm

Venue: Commonwealth Parliamentary Association (CPA) Room, Houses of Parliament, London SW1A 0AA (off Westminster Hall, use St Stephen's entrance)

Speakers include:

- Ivan Lewis MP, Minister of State for the Middle East, Foreign and Commonwealth Office (tbc)
- Aida Touma-Sliman, General Director, Women Against Violence
- Shmuel Ben-Tovim, Minister - Economic Affairs, Embassy of Israel
- Leo Williams, Manager UK Friends of the Abraham Fund Initiatives

Chair: Sir Jeremy Beecham, New Israel Fund

The Foreign Policy Centre is delighted to be hosting a Westminster Seminar to launch its 'Full and Equal Citizens: How to Deliver Equality for Israel's Arab Minorities?' project, supported by the Pears Foundation. The project will explore some of the main challenges facing Israel's Arab minorities, including: community relations, housing, education, economic development, employment, political representation and policing. The project will examine what lessons can be learned from UK anti-discrimination practice and how international donors can best support community cohesion in Israel.

If you would like to attend, please email: events@fpc.org.uk

Spotlight on Georgia: A keynote speech by Irakli Alasania

Date: Wednesday 16 September, 3.45-5.00pm

Venue: Jubilee Room, Houses of Parliament, London SW1A 0AA

Speaker: Irakli Alasania, Leader, 'Our Georgia—Free Democrats Party' and 'Alliance for Georgia'

Chair: Stephen Twigg, Director, Foreign Policy Centre

The FPC was delighted to host Irakli Alasania, leader of his 'Our Georgia-Free Democrats Party' and the moderate opposition coalition 'Alliance for Georgia' at a Westminster Seminar on 16 Sept. Prior to his role in opposition, Mr Alasania served as Georgia's Ambassador to the United Nations from June 2006 to December 2008 and before that, from 2004-2006 as leader of the Abkhazian Government-in-exile and the President's Special Representative in the Georgia-Abkhaz peace talks. Mr Alasania spoke about the current political and human rights situation in Georgia and what the international community can do to support the country's democratic development.

NEW FPC PUBLICATIONS

Spotlight on Georgia

Edited by Adam Hug

This new FPC pamphlet examines the growing human rights and governance challenges facing Georgia. It highlights increasing concerns, both internal and international, about Georgian rule of law, media freedom, policing and electoral processes. The pamphlet recommends how Georgia must reform and what the international community should do to support it.

It contains contributions from authors including: Commissioner Benita Ferrero-Waldner; EU Special Representative for the South Caucasus, Peter Semneby; the Deputy Public Defender of Georgia, Giorgi Chekheidze; former UK Foreign Secretary, Rt Hon Sir Malcolm Rifkind MP; Chair of the UK's Georgian All Party Parliamentary Group, Bruce George MP; former US Ambassador to the USSR, Ambassador Arthur Hartman; author and Conciliation Resources Associate, Thomas de Waal; former OSCE Policing Adviser, Marco Kubny; Elsa Vidal from Reporters Without Borders; Giorgi Gogia from Human Rights Watch; and Dr Hans Gutbrod from the Caucasus Research Resource Centres.
